period of limitation was in his favour in this case, and that the defendant was not guilty of the offence, was that he had a special interest in the purchase of the land, having been appointed to receive commission on all sales of their land. Whether he could legally enter into a special commission was a question of law. Counsel understood the company had repudiated it but that did not affect the case.

Arthur Manning Mills, secretary of the Queensland Insurance Company, was called in support of the defendant's interest in the company. He produced the minutes of a meeting held on the 12th of December, 1915, in which he wrote to J. Frank Cox and Co., informing them that, in view of their failure to keep the business of the company, he had been appointed. Since November, 1915, Cox had been the holder of 750 shares in the company.

In reply to Mr. Manning, witness said he had a good knowledge of land values in the district, and that he had been present at all meetings between the counsel and representatives of the company for the purpose of the sale of the land. He was, in your opinion, was Mr. Manning.

Mr. Manning: What at the time of the sale?

Witness objected. The question was, whether respondent was interested in the sale in getting a commission from the sale, or whether not whether or not he had the money.

The Magistrate: I cannot accept an indication that the matter is a matter of law, simply dealing with facts.

Mr. Manning: Surely it is a fact—that was the question.

The Magistrate: Whether the land was sold.

of $2 or $40 a year. But no man was willing to differ to the victor.

The witness added that no commission had been paid to Cox and Co. in connection with the sale. In reply to Mr. Windeyer, he said that the company, at a meeting held subsequent to the sale, decided to offer permission to commission to Cox and Co. until the government's consent to the sale had been obtained.

Fred Fabian Cox, secretary of J. Frank Cox and Co., Ltd., said that the issued shares in the company numbered 300. There were seven shareholders in all, and 3700 shares were held by defendant.

TOWN CLERK'S EVIDENCE.

William Beresford Kenyon, Town Clerk of Haverley, said that between July 1, 1918, and December 31, 1918, Alderman Cox attended several meetings. He was present on November 21, 1918, when the matter of the payment of an interest on the land was dealt with. No record was taken on that day, but a particular Alderman voted on any question. He did not know where the meeting had been any division at the meeting in question. Financial matters were dealt with by a special committee, and their decision was later reviewed by the general council. Each member was not specified on the business paper, but all full details were available for inspection by all the Aldermen.

This was the case for the prosecution. The witness asked for a dismissal on the ground that the evidence called for the prosecution was not taken by cross-examination, showed clearly that any part taken by Cox in connection with the sale of the land in question was not taken by cross-examination, but by the Royal Estate Company, of which he was a shareholder.

Mr. M. J. McCarthy asked permission to prove that defendant was a director of the company, and the witness declined to allow the evidence to be re-opened.

Mr. Windeyer said that it had been proved that there was a contract between the defendant

There are other small squares and triangles, and there are no corners, now a place of beauty.

Hyde Park, a suitable home for all sorts, at all times—what is wrong with it? The Pond macrophyta predominate and affords a great shade. A few more groups of our native cacti might be added to the collection. But some people would object that I feel confident—no Lady—anyone else would fail to please everybody.

Regarding the Handwick Road question, I can only say perhaps not comment on the matter unfinished. If we are to progress, the old must give way to the new. The few things along the road will never be misused.

That Mr. Layton has the confidence of the people of Sydney is a fact. He is a man of high character and high ability, and his superior, Mr. Longhurst, has transformed many of Sydney's ugly corners into beautiful ones. He is a man of high honour to whom honour is due.

CLEMENTS TONIC

There are many business men in Sydney to-day who feel the effect of the times caused by the war, and great heat, the sudden changes, the pressure of the day, the worry of business to such a degree that they are more dead than alive when the day closes, almost too fatigued to reach home. To those men the letter published below by a prominent city accountant appeals, for it tells in a few words how faded nerve strength can be restored, insomnia banished, and health regained by the use of this well recognised remedy, Clements Tonic. It is the medicine that decreases weakness and increases strength. It should be in all homes in these oppressive days. No home is medically equipped without it. No one should put off getting Clements Tonic till to-morrow if they can get it to-day. It is health's Twin-brother.

"He strongly advised Clements Tonic—and not to be sceptical about it. I took his advice, and have since thanked him most heartily. That was about six weeks ago, and I can most truthfully say the Tonic has created wonders.

MOLDAVIA

ENEMY CLAIMS

MATCHIN

IMPORTANT BRIDGEHEAD

PEACE TALK

GERMANY AND U.S.A.

AUSTRIA'S ANXIETY

There has been much further fighting in Moldavia. The enemy claims that, by advancing in the Dobruja, he has taken Matchin. This bridgehead guards Braila and Galatz, the capture of which by the enemy would seriously expose the Russo-Rumanian flank in Moldavia.

The failure of the enemy's peace overtures, besides irritating the German newspapers, appears to have engendered in Germany a general suspicion of the intentions of the United States.

There have been peace demonstrations on a considerable scale in Vienna.

France has recognised the Venizelos Government at Salonica, and sent there a diplomatic agent.

The British have made a further slight advance in Mesopotamia.

WESTERN FRONT.

LONDON, Jan. 4. Sir Douglas Haig, reporting late on Thursday evening, stated: "Enemy activity during the morning was very active in the neighbourhood of Soissons and the southern half of the Ypres salient."

A French communiqué, issued at noon on Wednesday, stated: "There has been a very lively artillery duel north and south of the Somme and in the region of Verdun, around Mort Homme and Bezonvaux."

ANZACS AS RAIDERS.

WHAT THEY CALL "PEACE."

LONDON, Jan. 4. The war correspondent, Mr. Philip Gibbs, writing from British headquarters, says that the Australians and New Zealanders were recently active in night-raiding adventures. These expeditions took the men's nerves more than most incidents of trench warfare. It is no joke to crawl out into the dark and lie, holding one's breath, for one's mouth, while one's heart is beating like a hammer, and one's hands are shaking like a leaf, and one's feet are numb with cold, and one's eyes are staring into the darkness, and one's ears are straining for the faintest sound of the enemy's machine guns or the distant rumble of artillery.

The "Daily Telegraph" Milan correspondent says that the Workmen's Association in Vienna on Thursday organised a great peace demonstration, which lasted two hours, and concluded with cheers for peace. Imprisonments were pronounced against the military censors responsible for the war.

The Roman Catholics held a similar meeting on Friday, and passed a resolution urging the Government to formulate terms of peace, such as would make their acceptance certain.

A pamphlet published in Bavaria declares that the House of Hohenzollern is the main obstacle to peace.

ALLIES' PREPARATIONS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. Mr. Charles Gasey, a New York Times' special commissioner in London, says that while there is talk in Berlin as to whether or not the German peace overtures will be met, the Allies are preparing a counter-stroke which will make their previous unparalleled efforts seem insignificant.

Manpower and fighting gear are being piled up mountain-high behind the Somme. The people trust Sir Douglas Haig, and will back him to the limit.

SINKING OF SHIPS.

LONDON, Jan. 4. Lloyd's report that the following ships have been sunk: The British steamer Hilly Brand, 2508 tons, and the Norwegian steamer Erika, 747 tons, have been sunk.

A Copenhagen message states that when the Russian steamer Taskar, 3040 tons, was sunk the crew took to the boats, but one was killed. The men struggled for their lives, but the submarine did not attempt to save them, and three were drowned.

OVERDUE VESSELS.

The "New York World" says that some anxiety is manifested over the non-appearance of the first cargo of more than one hundred vessels.

NO COAL FOR NORWAY.

CHRISTIANIA, Jan. 3. Britain has stopped the export of coal to Norway. The action has caused anxiety. The "Aftenposten" states that British vessels are being ordered to leave the coast of Norway, and that the prohibition is maintained until the coal situation is improved.

Other newspapers state that negotiations between the Norwegian and British Governments are proceeding.

AMERICA AND GERMANY.

ENEMY SUSPICIOUS.

PEACE TALK DEVELOPMENT.

LONDON, Jan. 4. The Berlin correspondent of the New York United Press Association says that Germany is now discussing whether to send Wilson to the peace conference, or whether he is awaiting the psychological moment to enter the war. There is much comment following a new interpretation of his note to the belligerents.

The "Cologne Gazette" says: "No doubt Germany is anxious for America to remain neutral, but we are not sure if Germany has not decided, but she may supply a supplementary explanation of her attitude in a direct message to neutral countries."

The United Press agent adds: Mr. General American Ambassador in Berlin sent a long cable to President Wilson, following a conference with Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg. It is authoritatively stated that they discussed the Allies' reply to the German peace overtures.

MOLDAVIA BATTLE.

ENEMY'S ATTACKS.

CLAIMS CAPTURE OF MATCHIN.

LONDON, Jan. 4. A Russian official message says: The enemy on the Moldavian frontier twice took the offensive from Kuybyshev to the Suila River valley, but was everywhere repulsed. We have regained portion of our trenches on a height.

The Rumanians are conducting attacks north of the Kazhin River on the Moldavian frontier. The Rumanian army drove back the enemy east of Sopot and the Upper Suila River. Cavalry pursued the enemy, who, when reinforced, pressed back the Rumanians to their former positions.

A Russian rifle regiment took by assault the village of Ginkul, south-west of Rominik River, taking 212 prisoners, five cannon, and eight machine-guns. We also captured two adjacent positions.

ENEMY'S FURTHER PROGRESS. A German official message states: The Archduke Joseph repulsed with heavy losses strong attacks against Mount Falucent. We stormed several hills between the Bistula Valley and Putna Valley. We repulsed Russo-Rumanian counter-attacks and occupied Haresel and Topesel. After giving battle, von Mackensen made further progress, taking three positions on the Foculnic region. We pushed back the Russians in Dobruja, despite stubborn resistance.

Another German official message says: Matchin and Jidila (in the extreme north of Dobruja) have been captured.

An Austrian official message says: The Austro-Germans expelled the enemy from the north-east of Miletz. We repulsed strong enemy attacks south-east of Miletz with heavy losses. We captured 120 Russian prisoners east of Zlocow.

FRENCH PRESIDENT'S SYMPATHY. President Poincaré, replying to the King of Rumania, said he was greatly pleased that 1917 will bring the Rumanians victory, liberation, and reparation.

RULE OF VENIZELLOS.

OFFICIAL RECOGNITION.

LONDON, Jan. 3.

It is officially announced that M. Robert Delbail, Counselor to the French Embassy in Rome, has been appointed French diplomatic agent to the Venizelos Government at Salonica. The Venizelos Government will recognise the Venizelos Government in Paris.

A Greek destroyer, commanded by an aide-de-camp of Admiral Condouriotis, of the Venizelos Administration, landed a detachment and occupied Hydra Island, 42 miles south of Athens.

(It was officially announced last month that the Venizelos Government had been recognised by the Venizelos Government. A few days ago the appointment of Karl Grandin as Venizelos diplomatic agent at Salonica was reported. The Venizelos control extends over almost all of southern Greece—Macedonia, Crete, and the Aegean Islands.)

GERMAN ALLEGATIONS DENIED. (Admiralty press release.) A German message alleges that President Wilson is protesting against British air bombing of Drama railway station in Macedonia, east of Salonica, following the departure of the delegates and consuls who were ejected by the Allies from Greece. The wireless message alleges that the airman were aware of the delegates had to be met at the station.

The British Admiralty, replying to the allegation, quotes the official statement which says that the Anglo-German and other representatives, with their families and servants, landed at Kavalla, the air commander on Thasos, on learning of the Drama-Kavalla road. He was not bombed for 24 hours from the morning of November 25, as women and children belonging to the British Legation, who were on board, complied with the request. Moreover, he refrained from operations until the 28th. The only attack on the 25th was on the Drama aerodrome alone, and this was before the British request reached our air station. No bombs were dropped in the town of Thasos in the vicinity of the station.

MAIL BY ZEPPELIN. A Zeppelin appeared at Larissa and dropped mail bags, containing correspondence, to the Greek army corps which surrounded the enemy in Macedonia, and has since been interned at Gorizia.

MESOPOTAMIA. An official message from Mesopotamia states: In spite of heavy rains we have made further progress along the right bank of the Tigris, east and north-east of Kut-el-Amara.

GENERAL POLICY UNDERWENT SEVERAL MINOR CHANGES.

IN ORDER TO PREPARE NEUTRALITY FOR THE IMPERIAL CHANCELLOR'S SPEECH, AND FOR THE ISSUE OF THE SO-CALLED PEACE NOTE.

SHIP IN THE CENTRAL ENGLISH WATERS.

For months before the official announcement on the question of peace was made correspondence accounts of interviews and articles relating to many subjects which a few weeks previously would have come under the ban of the censor. Writers were permitted to mention the German situation, but they were not to hope to gain a decision in the west, and that the German soldiers and civilians were tired of the war. Gloomy forebodings by certain German writers were no longer suppressed, and even such prominent military figures as Hindenburg and the Crown Prince granted interviews. But perhaps the most remarkable instance of heretofore unobtainable information was contained in a cablegram published yesterday, which referred to an article by Professor Meinelke, historian, of Freiburg University, published in the "Frankfurter Zeitung." The "Continental programme," he says, "was brilliantly begun, but it collapsed at the gates of Paris, in the Battle of the Marne." This does not represent the official German position, but it is a very revealing statement, where it has always been recognized that the Battle of the Marne was a great Allied success, and that it represented a turning point in the war. But that such has not been the view which the German people had presented to the authorities, and if they compare Professor Meinelke's statement with the official German position, both at the time of the battle and at a later period, their faith in Germany's official news will be greatly shaken.

GERMAN ALLEGATIONS DENIED. (Admiralty press release.) A German message alleges that President Wilson is protesting against British air bombing of Drama railway station in Macedonia, east of Salonica, following the departure of the delegates and consuls who were ejected by the Allies from Greece. The wireless message alleges that the airman were aware of the delegates had to be met at the station.

The British Admiralty, replying to the allegation, quotes the official statement which says that the Anglo-German and other representatives, with their families and servants, landed at Kavalla, the air commander on Thasos, on learning of the Drama-Kavalla road. He was not bombed for 24 hours from the morning of November 25, as women and children belonging to the British Legation, who were on board, complied with the request. Moreover, he refrained from operations until the 28th. The only attack on the 25th was on the Drama aerodrome alone, and this was before the British request reached our air station. No bombs were dropped in the town of Thasos in the vicinity of the station.

MAIL BY ZEPPELIN. A Zeppelin appeared at Larissa and dropped mail bags, containing correspondence, to the Greek army corps which surrounded the enemy in Macedonia, and has since been interned at Gorizia.
